Effectively implemented the operation and exploitation of the water supply system and the work of investing in expanding the water supply system, specifically the clean water consumption output in 2024 produced and supplied to consumers 19,087,583 m³, reaching 102.39% compared to the plan.

The work of developing the distribution pipeline network and installing water meters to expand production and business as of December 31, 2024, the company reached 83,227 water-using customer households throughout the provincial urban area (excluding Binh Minh Town, Binh Tan District, and Mang Thit District). Raising the percentage of population supplied with clean water in the urban area of Vinh Long province to 99.5% with an actual average water consumption of 110 liters/person/day (urban area is 105 liters/person/day).

Effectively perform periodic maintenance of machinery and equipment and address breakdowns, maintaining continuous water supply operations in urban areas to ensure water provision for residents' daily life and production and business activities within the urban areas of Vinh Long province.

However, the Company still faces certain difficulties such as prolonged salinity intrusion affecting the surface water sources exploited at water treatment plants; the quality of raw water is quite heavily polluted compared to state standards, especially with organic matter and heavy metals, leading to increased water treatment material consumption rates.

The pressure of annual dividend targets requires the Company to implement very good corporate governance policies, calculate and minimize costs to increase profits. However, alongside this, it must still ensure capital for expanding water supply scale, accumulate funds for principal loan repayment, pay bank loan interest, and ensure salaries and income for employees.

Previously, the capital for implementing water supply projects mainly came from the state budget. After equitization, this capital source is no longer allocated, so the Company must continue to implement projects using loan capital, retained earnings, or by issuing additional shares to raise capital from shareholders. This requires the Company to balance and phase investments, prioritizing essential projects for earlier implementation to fulfill the political task assigned by the province, ensuring the demand for clean water for the people and economic efficiency for the enterprise.

The price situation of commodities such as raw materials, chemicals, electricity, etc., increasing production costs for the company, has significantly affected the Company's production and business efficiency.

Responsibilities of the Chairman of the Board of Directors and the Board of General Directors

The Chairman of the Board of Directors and the Board of General Directors of the Company are responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting standards, the Vietnamese accounting regime for enterprises, and relevant legal regulations on the preparation and presentation of financial statements, and for such internal control as the Chairman of the Board of Directors and the Board of General Directors determine is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with Vietnamese Standards on Auditing. Those standards require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

IV. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)Financial InvestmentsHeld-to-Maturity Investments

Held-to-maturity investments include investments that the Company has the intent and ability to hold until maturity. Held-to-maturity investments include: term bank deposits (including certificates of deposit, promissory notes), bonds, preferred shares that the issuer is obligated to repurchase at a certain point in the future, and other held-to-maturity investments.

Held-to-maturity investments are recognized from the purchase date and initially measured at cost plus transaction costs.

Significant influence is the power to participate in the financial and operating policy decisions of the investee but is not control or joint control over those policies.

The Company initially recognizes investments in associates at cost. The Company recognizes in the statement of comprehensive income its share of the investee's cumulative net profit arising after the investment date. Amounts other than the share of profit received by the Company are considered a recovery of investments and are recognized as a reduction in the cost of the investment. Dividends received in shares are only tracked for the increased number of shares, without recognizing the value of the shares received and the revenue from share dividends.

Investments in associates are presented in the statement of financial position at cost less any impairment losses (if any).

Investments in Equity Instruments of Other Entities

Investments in equity instruments of other entities reflect equity investments where the Company does not have control, joint control, or significant influence over the investee.

Investments in equity instruments of other entities are presented in the statement of financial position at cost less any impairment losses (if any).

For the fiscal year ended 31/12/2024

Impairment of investments in associates and investments in equity instruments of other entities is recognized as follows:

- For investments in listed shares or where the fair value of the investment is reliably determined, the impairment is based on the market value of the shares.
- For investments without a determinable fair value at the reporting date, the provision is based on the investee's loss, calculated as the difference between the actual contributed capital of the parties in the other entity and the actual equity, multiplied by the Company's ownership percentage compared to the total actual contributed capital of the parties in the other entity. If the investee is a subject of consolidated financial statements, the basis for determining the impairment provision is the consolidated financial statements.

Increases or decreases in the allowance for impairment losses on investments in associates and investments in equity instruments of other entities required at the end of the reporting period are recognized in finance costs during the year.

Receivables

Receivables represent amounts recoverable from customers or other parties. Receivables are presented at their carrying amount less allowance for doubtful accounts.

Allowance for doubtful accounts is made for: receivables overdue according to economic contracts, loan agreements, contractual commitments or debt commitments, and receivables not yet due but unlikely to be collected. The allowance for overdue receivables is based on the original principal repayment schedule in the sales contract, excluding any debt extensions between the parties, and for receivables not yet due but where the debtor is bankrupt or undergoing liquidation, missing, or absconded.

Increases or decreases in the allowance for doubtful accounts required at the end of the reporting period are recognized in general and administrative expenses during the year.

Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realizable value. The cost of inventories comprises direct materials, direct labor, and manufacturing overhead to bring the inventories to their present location and condition. The cost of inventories is determined using the weighted-average method. Net realizable value is the estimated selling price less the estimated costs of completion and the estimated costs to market, sell, and distribute.

The Company's inventory obsolescence reserve is established according to current accounting regulations. Accordingly, the Company is allowed to establish an allowance for obsolete, damaged, and substandard inventories and in cases where the cost of inventories is higher than the net realizable value at the reporting date. The expense for the allowance for obsolete, damaged, and substandard inventories is not tax-deductible until the goods are disposed of.

Increases or decreases in the allowance for inventory obsolescence required at the end of the reporting period are recognized in the cost of goods sold during the year.

IV. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)Prepaid Expenses

Prepaid expenses include actual expenses incurred but related to the production and business results of multiple accounting periods.

Prepaid expenses include prepaid insurance, the value of small tools, components, and other prepaid expenses considered likely to provide future economic benefits to the Company. These expenses are capitalized as prepaid expenses and allocated to production and business expenses using the straight-line method and the actual number of uses, in accordance with current accounting regulations.

Property, Plant and Equipment and Depreciation

Tangible fixed assets are presented at original cost less accumulated depreciation.

The original cost of tangible fixed assets includes the purchase price and all other costs directly related to bringing the assets into a ready-to-use state.

The original cost of self-made or self-constructed tangible fixed assets includes actual construction costs, production costs incurred plus installation and trial run costs.

Tangible fixed assets are depreciated using the straight-line method based on their estimated useful lives. Specific depreciation periods are as follows:

	Number of Years
Buildings and Structures	5 - 50
Machinery and Equipment	5 - 15
Motor vehicles	6 - 30
Office equipment	3 - 8

The Company's tangible fixed assets are revalued upon equitization of the State-owned enterprise. The original cost and accumulated depreciation are adjusted according to the revaluation results approved by competent authorities as regulated.

Gains or losses arising from the disposal or sale of assets are the difference between the proceeds from disposal and the remaining value of the assets and are recorded in the statement of profit or loss.

Intangible fixed assets and amortization

Intangible fixed assets are presented at original cost less accumulated amortization. The Company's intangible fixed assets are the value of software programs, amortized using the straight-line method over 5 years.

Construction in progress

Assets under construction for production, rental, administrative, or any other purposes are recorded at cost. This cost includes service costs and related interest expenses in accordance with the Company's accounting policies. Depreciation of these assets is applied in the same manner as other assets, commencing when the asset is in a ready-to-use state.

Payables

Payables are tracked in detail by due date, payee, currency, and other factors as required by the Company's management. Payables to sellers include trade payables arising from purchase and sale transactions and payables upon import through authorized recipients (in entrusted import transactions). Other payables include non-trade payables not related to purchase and sale transactions. Payables are classified as current or non-current on the financial statements based on the remaining maturity of the payables at the reporting date.

For the fiscal year ended 31/12/2024

IV. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)Accrued expenses

Accrued expenses include payables for goods and services received from sellers or provided to buyers during the reporting period but not yet paid due to the lack of invoices or insufficient accounting records and documents, and are recorded in the production and business expenses of the reporting period.

Development fund for science and tech

Development fund for science and tech is accounted for in the enterprise management expenses to determine the business results of the period.

The Company sets aside and uses the Development Fund in accordance with the provisions of Circular No. 05/2022/TT-BKHCN dated May 31, 2022 of the Ministry of Science and Technology; Circular No. 67/2022/BTC dated November 7, 2022 of the Ministry of Finance.

The annual deduction rate is from 3% to 10% of taxable income. The specific deduction rate in 2024 is based on the Company's ability and need to use capital for science and technology activities at 3%.

Equity Recognition

Owner's contributed capital is recorded at the actual contributed capital of shareholders.

Share premium is recorded as the difference between the actual issue price and the par value of shares upon initial issuance, additional issuance, or re-issuance of treasury shares.

The principle for recognizing retained earnings is the profit (or loss) from the Company's business operations less (-) corporate income tax expense for the current period and adjustments due to retrospective application of changes in accounting policies and retrospective adjustments of material prior year errors.

Dividends are declared and paid from retained earnings based on the approval of the General Meeting of Shareholders at the Company's Annual General Meeting.

Reserves and funds from after-tax profits are appropriated based on the Company's charter and the approval of the General Meeting of Shareholders.

IV. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)Revenue RecognitionSales Revenue

Sales revenue is recognized when all five (5) of the following conditions are met:

- (a) The Company has transferred the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the product or goods to the buyer;
- (b) The Company retains neither continuing managerial involvement to the degree usually associated with ownership nor effective control over the goods sold;
- (c) Revenue is relatively certain. When the contract stipulates that the buyer has the right to return the purchased products or goods under specific conditions, revenue is only recognized when those specific conditions no longer exist, and the buyer no longer has the right to return the products or goods (except when the customer has the right to return goods in exchange for other goods or services);
- (d) The Company will derive economic benefits from the sales transaction; and
- (e) The costs relating to the sales transaction can be reliably measured.

The Company's sales revenue is mainly revenue from providing clean water to people in Vinh Long Province with water prices applied according to the Decision of the Provincial People's Committee for each period. Water prices are only adjusted after being approved by the competent State agency.

Service Revenue

Revenue from service transactions is recognized when the outcome of the transaction can be estimated reliably. For service transactions spanning multiple periods, revenue is recognized in the period based on the percentage of completion at the balance sheet date of that period. The outcome of a service transaction can be estimated reliably when all four (4) of the following conditions are met:

- (a) Revenue is relatively certain. When the contract stipulates that the buyer has the right to return the purchased services under specific conditions, revenue is only recognized when those specific conditions no longer exist, and the buyer no longer has the right to return the services provided;
- (b) It is probable that the economic benefits associated with the service transaction will flow to the Company;
- (c) The stage of completion of the transaction at the balance sheet date can be measured reliably; and
- (d) The costs incurred for the transaction and the costs to complete the service transaction can be measured reliably.

Finance Income

Interest income from deposits and loans is recognized on an accrual basis, determined based on the outstanding balance of deposit and loan accounts and the applicable interest rate.

Dividends and profit sharing are recognized when the Company is entitled to receive dividends or profits from its investments. Dividends received in the form of shares are only tracked in terms of the number of additional shares received; the value of the shares received and revenue from share dividends are not recognized.

Revenue from the Company's construction contracts is recognized in accordance with the Company's accounting policy for construction contracts. Revenue and costs of construction contracts are recognized as follows:

When the outcome of the contract can be estimated reliably:

- For construction contracts that stipulate payment to the contractor based on planned progress, revenue and costs related to the contract are recognized in proportion to the stage of completion determined by the Company at the end of the accounting period.

- For construction contracts that stipulate payment to the contractor based on the value of completed work, revenue and costs related to the contract are recognized in proportion to the stage of completion confirmed by the customer and reflected on the issued invoice.

Increases or decreases in construction volume, compensation receipts, and other collections are only recognized as revenue when agreed upon with the customer.

When the outcome of a construction contract cannot be estimated reliably, then:

- Revenue is recognized only to the extent of contract costs incurred for which recovery is probable.
- Contract costs are recognized as expenses when incurred.

The difference between the total cumulative revenue recognized for the construction contract and the cumulative amount recorded on the payment invoice according to the contract's planned progress is recognized as a receivable or payable according to the planned progress of the construction contracts.

Cost of Sales Recognition

Cost of goods sold and services provided is recognized at actual cost incurred and aggregated by value and quantity of finished goods, merchandise, materials sold, and services provided to customers, ensuring compliance with the matching principle and the principle of prudence. Costs exceeding normal levels for inventory and services provided are recognized immediately in the operating results for the year.

Borrowing Costs

Borrowing costs are recognized as expenses in the year they are incurred, unless capitalized in accordance with the "Borrowing Costs" accounting standard. Accordingly, borrowing costs directly attributable to the acquisition, construction, or production of assets that take a substantial period of time to get ready for their intended use or sale are added to the cost of those assets until such time as the assets are ready for their intended use or sale. Income earned from the temporary investment of specific borrowings is deducted from the cost of the related asset. For loans specifically used for the construction of fixed assets and investment properties, interest is capitalized even if the construction period is less than 12 months.

IV. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)Taxes

Income tax expense represents the sum of current tax payable and deferred tax.

Current tax payable is calculated based on taxable income for the year. Taxable income differs from net profit presented in the Statement of Comprehensive Income because taxable income excludes income or expenses taxed or deducted in other years (including loss carryforwards, if any) and also excludes non-taxable or non-deductible items.

Deferred tax is calculated on temporary differences between the carrying amount and the tax base of assets or liabilities recognized in the financial statements. Deferred tax liabilities are recognized for all temporary differences, while deferred tax assets are recognized only when it is probable that sufficient taxable profit will be available in the future to offset the temporary differences.

Deferred tax is determined using tax rates expected to apply in the year the asset is realized or the liability is settled. Deferred tax is recognized in the Statement of Comprehensive Income and charged or credited to equity only when the tax relates to items charged or credited directly to equity.

Deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities are offset when the Company has a legally enforceable right to offset current tax assets against current tax liabilities and when the deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities relate to income taxes levied by the same taxation authority and the Company intends to settle its current tax liability on a net basis.

The Company's income tax determination is based on current tax regulations. However, these regulations change periodically, and the final corporate income tax determination depends on the inspection results of the competent tax authorities.

Other taxes are applied according to current tax laws in Vietnam.

Basic Earnings Per Share

Basic earnings per share is calculated by dividing the profit or loss after tax allocated to the Company's common shareholders (after adjustments for bonus and welfare funds) by the weighted average number of outstanding common shares during the year.

Related Parties

Related parties are considered to be enterprises - including parent companies, subsidiaries, affiliated companies - individuals, directly or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, who have control over the Company or are controlled by the Company, or share joint control with the Company. Affiliated parties, individuals who directly or indirectly hold the Company's voting rights and have significant influence over the Company, key management personnel such as the General Director, officers of the Company, close family members of these individuals or affiliated parties, or companies affiliated with these individuals are also considered related parties.

In considering the relationship of each related party, the substance of the relationship is considered rather than the legal form.
